

MOTOR CITY CHIMNEY

REPAIR & MAINTENANCE

(248) 478-7588

16400 N Park Dr. #810 | Southfield, MI 48075

Choose your chimney protection

Three installed options. Final fit, scope and total confirmed after rooftop measurement.

The supplied photo appears to show two flues: one capped and one uncovered. Options 1 and 2 cover one selected flue; Option 3 is a proposed upgrade covering both flues under one cap. The existing cap and venting arrangement still need inspection.

| COMPARE                    | 01 ECONOMY                                                           | 02 STANDARD                                                                         | 03 PREMIUM                                                                                      |
|----------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Estimated installed price  | $545                                                                | $695                                                                               | $1,195-$1,595                                                                                 |
| Cap + hardware allowance   | $195                                                                | $345                                                                               | $745-$1,145                                                                                   |
| Measurement + installation | $350                                                                | $350                                                                               | $450                                                                                           |
| Material / appearance      | Black powder-coated galvanized steel                                 | Stainless steel; natural silver finish                                              | Custom-size stainless steel; natural silver finish                                              |
| Coverage                   | One selected flue                                                    | One selected flue                                                                   | Both flues under one fitted, screened hood                                                      |
| Main benefit               | Lowest upfront cost for rain and wildlife protection at one opening. | Improved corrosion resistance and better long-term material value.                  | Broader coverage, a unified appearance and custom fit for the chimney layout.                   |
| Why the price changes      | Stock-size cap and straightforward mounting keep the price lower.    | Upgraded stainless steel cap and hardware; the same installation charge as Economy. | More stainless steel, custom sizing, larger assembly and more mounting work.                    |
| Trade-off                  | Coating wear or damage can expose steel to corrosion.                | Higher initial cost; the other flue is not included.                                | Highest initial cost; requires measurements, fabrication pricing and suitable mounting surface. |
| Best fit for you           | You want an economical cap for one compatible flue.                  | You want durable protection for one flue without a full-top upgrade.                | You want to replace separate caps with one coordinated cover over both flues.                   |

Price basis: These are proposed customer prices, not supplier costs or a binding quote. Parts and standard-access labor are included. Any applicable taxes will be identified in the final written total. Custom size, difficult access or repairs may change the price; approval is required before added work.

MOTOR CITY CHIMNEY

REPAIR & MAINTENANCE

(248) 478-7588

16400 N Park Dr. #810 | Southfield, MI 48075

What is included & what to expect

Clear scope, practical differences and answers before you decide.

Included with every option

A rooftop measurement visit; cap selection and sourcing; the selected cap and compatible mounting hardware; installation under normal ladder/roof access; removal and disposal of the cap being replaced, if applicable; and cleanup of installation debris. Options 1 and 2 leave the other flue unchanged. Premium includes removing the existing cap where needed for the new two-flue assembly.

Why stainless steel costs more

Economy provides the core hood-and-screen function at a lower entry price. Stainless steel offers better corrosion resistance without depending on a painted coating for that resistance. Premium adds coverage and custom fabrication; it does not automatically mean a higher grade of stainless steel than Standard. Exact alloy, gauge, model and finish will be listed in the final quote.

Will a cap stop water, animals and smoke problems?

A properly fitted hood helps reduce rain and snow entering the covered opening; screening helps exclude birds and larger animals. It is not insect-proof or a guarantee against every pest. A cap does not repair crown cracks, flashing leaks or damaged masonry, and is not a guaranteed cure for smoke or draft problems. Existing animals or nests must be addressed before closure.

Compatibility, maintenance and warranty

The appliance/fuel type, flue dimensions, lid clearance, screen specification and mounting surface must be verified. The proposed galvanized option is not suitable for oil/coal use or wood/pellets as the primary heat source under the referenced manufacturer guidance. All options require ongoing inspection and screen cleaning as needed. Manufacturer warranty terms depend on the selected product; any installation warranty will be stated in the final proposal. No fixed service life or lifetime labor warranty is promised here.

Not included in these estimates

Chimney sweeping; camera/scope inspection; wildlife removal or nest removal; crown, brick, mortar, flashing or liner repairs; chimney rebuilding; special lifts/scaffolding; and unlisted modifications. A cap installation is not a full chimney inspection or a certification that the fireplace is safe to use. Any necessary additional work will be explained and priced separately for approval.

How your final price and installation are confirmed

Choose your preferred option, then call or text (248) 478-7588. We confirm the target flue(s), measure, inspect access and the attachment area, and provide the exact product, complete price, applicable tax treatment, warranty terms and schedule before ordering. Custom-cap lead time and any deposit/cancellation terms are confirmed before authorization. Selecting a preference does not authorize extra work.

Your preference: Economy $545 | Standard $695 | Premium $1,195-$1,595

Need only one flue covered? Standard is the balanced material upgrade. Choose Premium for two-flue coverage.

Product references (reviewed October 2, 2026; final model may differ):

HY-C Shelter galvanized caps | HY-C Shelter stainless caps | Fireside custom multi-flue caps

Package pricing is a preliminary service estimate; manufacturer references support product features, not installed prices.